Seafood Industry Training Organisation (SITO) Seminar

With Dr Greg Cajete (University of New Mexico)
2005 Mira Szászy Research Centre’s Senior Fulbright Scholar
Specialist in Curricula Design for Indigenous Peoples Learning

28 June 2005

Venue:
Seafood Industry Training Organisation (SITO)
Level 2
Seafood House
74 Cambridge Terrace
Wellington

Hosts
Ngahiwi Apanui, Kaitakawaenga, Māori Sector Manager, SITO
&
Dr Manuka Henare, Director, NZ Seafood Industry Innovation Project, Mira Szászy Research Centre for Māori and Pacific Economic Development, Graduate School of Business, University of Auckland Business School.

11.00am – 3.00pm

Kaupapa:

Curricula development for indigenous peoples’ education and formation for fisheries. This will include discussions on Mātauranga Māori and tikanga Māori. One outcome of the seminar will be the development of a Māori curriculum and syllabus for innovation in the Seafood sector, including governance and senior management development.
Gregory A Cajete, PhD: Biography

Dr Gregory Cajete is an educator, practicing artist, and educational consultant. He is a Tewa from Santa Clara Pueblo, New Mexico. He has taught at the Institute of American Indian Arts in Santa Fe, where he was the founding director of the Center for Research and Cultural Exchange. He is also Assistant Professor in the College of Education at the University of New Mexico where he teaches and is assisting with the Center for Research and Cultural Exchange.

He visits New Zealand as the Mira Szászy Research Centre’s Senior Fulbright Scholar 2005